Dr. Ieleen Taylor

BSc, MD, CCFP

Dr. Ieleen Taylor was born in the Fiji Islands and then grew up in Edmonton, Alberta. She completed her medical degree at the University of Alberta followed by residency in family medicine in Hamilton, Ontario.

When she moved back to Alberta, Dr. Taylor worked in a number of medical practices in rural areas as a "locum tenens" prior to settling in Sylvan Lake. She enjoys the wide spectrum of practice that rural family medicine has to offer and also enjoys teaching.

Dr. Taylor has four beautiful daughters and enjoys living in Sylvan Lake.

Dr. Amy Cockburn

BSc, MD, CCFP

Dr. Amy Cockburn was raised in Beaumont, Alberta. She completed an undergraduate degree in biochemistry from the University of Alberta. She then worked as the director of a science/engineering outreach program for youth and became passionate about rural medicine while travelling across northern Alberta and the NWT. She graduated from the University of Alberta medical school in 2016.

Dr. Cockburn then moved to Red Deer to complete her residency in rural family medicine. During her residency training she spent time with the physicians at Sylvan Family Health and was drawn to the clinic's collaborative approach and focus on the patient's medical home.

We are thrilled to have Dr. Cockburn working in Bashaw and look forward to meeting her. In her spare time, Dr. Cockburn enjoys hiking, skiing and spending time with her husband and three sons.

Dr. Lindsay Nanninga (Nah-ninga)

BSc, MD, CCFP

Dr Nanninga was raised near Barrhead, Alberta. She spent most of her adult life in Edmonton going to College and University, completing her Medical Degree at the University of Alberta in 2010. She was drawn to "lake life" and moved to Sylvan Lake in 2010 while she pursued Rural Family Medicine Residency training in Central Alberta.

She spent time during her residency, learning from the doctors at Sylvan Family Health. Dr Nanninga was drawn to the collaborative, efficient and team focused care, and joined the practice in 2013.

In her spare time, she likes to spend time with her two girls. They like to spend their time with friends and neighbours, hanging out at the beach and on the lake, and bike riding the trails around town.

Dr. Brad Bahler

BSc, MD, CCFP

Dr. Bahler was raised on a farm between Sylvan Lake and Red Deer. He graduated in 2002 from the U of A Medical School and went on to complete his residency in Rural Medicine through the University of Alberta.

In July 2004 he began practicing at the Sylvan Family Health Centre. Dr. Bahler is a preceptor with the U of A and enjoys the teaching aspect of medicine. He also has several provincial roles within Alberta primary care. He is currently the provincial Medical Director for Primary Care Network in Alberta and does consulting work in the area of access, integration and quality improvement. Dr. Bahler married Jennifer in 2000 and now has four wonderful children. Besides the joys of being a proud and busy father, he enjoys sports - especially hockey and golf. He spends time relaxing, reading, camping and spending time with close friends.

Dr. Patterson

BSc, MD, CCFP

Welcome to Dr. Patterson!

Dr. Patterson grew up on a small island in Nova Scotia called Long Island.

He studied at Dalhousie University receiving a BSc with a double major in Biology and Psychology and an MSc in Physiotherapy.

After completing his Physiotherapy training, he moved to Medicine Hat where he practiced for a number of years before returning to Medical School at the University of Calgary. After completing his medical degree school, he moved to Sylvan Lake and completed his residency training in rural family medicine in Red Deer.

Dr. Patterson currently resides in Sylvan Lake with his wife and 3 children.

When not working, Dr Patterson enjoys spending time outside running, hiking and hunting in the fall.
